

POST GRADUATE DEGREE PROGRAMME IN ENGLISH (MA)

PROGRAMME OUT COMES AND OBJECTIVES

The postgraduate degree programme in English is structured to train students in negotiating such cultural discourses as literature, drama and films. It is designed with the faith that such a skill can be inculcated in the students with reference to a culture. Therefore, the core courses are structured around British literature from Chaucer onwards. Literary texts from Elizabethan, Restoration, Neoclassical, Romantic, Victorian and the Modern are taken up for analysis in relation to the ages of the production of the texts. The course also aims at educating the student in a broader way. While it begins by laying firm foundations for a discerning response to literature and culture of one nation, it does not limit itself to an exclusive study of a single nation, single language and single literature. It introduces the students to a multitude of literatures from around the world (Nineteenth Century American Literature, European Classics in English Translation, African-American Fiction, American Drama and Canadian Literature in English). It also makes a focused study of Indian literature across genres from the classical period to the contemporary times. Along with this the course includes in its ambit, a discussion of contemporary intellectual and theoretical positions concerning gender, sex, language, colonialism, post colonialism, Marxism, modernism, postmodernism, structuralism and post structuralism. The different schools of thought are primarily handled through the courses on literary criticism and softcore papers such as Dalit literature, Gender studies, Women writing in India and film studies. The course also aims at creating teachers of English at college level. With this view, a specially designed language teaching paper is offered as also a paper on the structure of the English language. These papers are further supported with a language lab (11 computers), training students in phonetics and grammar. The department is also engaged in conducting doctoral research in the fields of literary criticism, translation studies, gender studies, postcolonial studies, American literature, Partition literature, comparative literature and culture studies.

ENH 402: THE NINETEENTH CENTURY NOVELS (Hard Core)

- Credits: 4 (4 lectures and one tutorial)
- Examination: End-semester examination: 70 Marks; Internal Assessment: 30 Marks)
- Internal Assessment: Class presentation, Monthly Test, Seminar—separately or in combination

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

This course seeks to introduce students to:

1. The major novels of the Nineteenth Century through a study of selected texts.
2. The development in form and content in the novels of this period.
3. The interconnection between the novel form and the major social experience of the period and how a novelist creatively responds to these.
4. A comparative sense of literary value in terms of the texts studied.

COURSE OUTCOME:

1. The student will acquire a broad knowledge of the Nineteenth Century British novels and the cultural and literary aspects in them. The student will recognize and remember the major names of the novelists and their novels.
2. In analysing the novels of this period, the student will comprehend the cultural problems of the period and understand them historically. The student will understand how these cultural problems are interrelated and define a period or a movement.
3. The student will interpret the novels prescribed in the syllabus in terms of the cultural and ideological issues enumerated in para 2. The student will learn to locate and recognize these issues in the texts prescribed for study.
4. Students are encouraged to analyse their own cultural/existential situations in terms of the cultural and ideological issues that are contemporary.
5. Students will try to synthesize universal/narrative analytical models from out of the novels and examine whether such universals help them understand their own situations. Elements of postcolonial/orientalist themes may be developed by students themselves.

Students will evaluate similar cultural/literary passages from their cultures and see how best they can respond to them.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

This course seeks to introduce students to:

- Orientalism as a critical discourse and its bearings on Indian history and culture from 18th through to 21 century.
- To reassess the conventional ways in which we have been studying Indian culture the Indian literary texts.
- To problematize the current dominant academic assumptions regarding culture, colonialism and colonial experience.
- To bring together orientalism and postcolonialism and enable students to become aware of the fact that they are the objects of imperial gaze
- Encourage students to find out how other erstwhile colonial cultures are faring in this regard.

COURSE OUTCOME:

- The student will acquire a broad knowledge of the main arguments of orientalism as a critical discourse and be able to apply it in negotiating Indian literary texts.
- The students will comprehend the cultural problems of the colonial period and understand them historically. The student will understand how these cultural problems are generally set as an agenda by the imperial interests.
- The students will be able to reinterpret the main texts of the Indian cultural discourse in terms of orientalism and postcolonialism
- Students will learn to compare their postcolonial and orientalist narrations with that of other cultures in similar situations (middle and far east, China etc)
- From observations made in the case of individual texts, students will learn to synthesize a broader critical discourse that will help them as a critical tool.
- Students will evaluate cultural/literary passages from their cultures and see how best they can respond to them.

ENH 552: LITERARY CRITICISM –PART II

- Hard Core/ 4 Credits (4 lectures and one tutorial)
- End semester Examination 70 Marks
- Internal Assessment 30 Marks – Monthly Tests/Assignments/Class Reports.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

- The objective of this course is to introduce students to major literary movements of the twentieth century.
- The aim is to enable students to identify major critical schools in terms of the concepts employed in their arguments.
- The course seeks to encourage students to apply some of the critical arguments to the texts they have already studied.
- To be able to make a comparative evaluation of the strengths and weakness of the critical schools.

COURSE OUTCOME:

- Students will learn about the major schools and ideological movements in criticism such as Formalism, Avant-garde movements, New Criticism, Structuralism, Poststructuralism, Orientalism and Deconstruction.
- The students will learn to identify and explain each school on the basis of the technical terms and concepts that they have learnt in each of the above critical school/movement.
- Students will practice criticism of the above schools by applying them to the texts they have studied.
- Students will learn to analyse and examine texts in applying critical tenants.
- Students will learn to state arguments of the above schools coherently by putting together major concepts in applying them to the texts.
- Students shall try to evaluate their textual experience in the application/extension of these critical schools in relation to the texts they have studied.
